

A.M. O. R. E. Y (A Map Of Reality Embodies Yourself) By Crossflow x dIGIHIRO
(T. Amore, K. Morey)

Lyrics, Vocals and Spoken Words Written and Performed by T. Amore for dIGIHIRO.
Produced, Mixed, Mastered, Keys and Scratches by K. Morey for Crossflow Recordings.
Copyright 2020

Lyrics:
(Intro) Once again it's the life, to live. Listen.

(Rap) Reality as we know it is a virtual universe. Within our heads, based on threads of info that you rehearse.
From past experience, the map of the world is sketched.
But it ain't real, it's just our best guess
-impression of real, our mind maps are made manually.
Drawn out by our brain, never exactly the same
-as each other, even identical brothers generate different experiences So let me vision this.
We trace our mentors but we still can't replicate them properly. We take a subject, draw a map that's in fact an anomaly
-'cause it's not exact, a prodigy emerges from accepted info Brain processes the ink flow -of consciousness, where on is endless map you draw next.
Or where you're drawn to next and how complex.
Definition or wisdom of your map, how realistic?
How much colour or duller, how artistic?
The people you meet influence your next sketch.
Empathy is the influence measure stick and that is blessed. Excess connection is a special ability.
So empathy in excess is the force, you're feeling me.
Jedi is still in me, infinity stone of information.
Consciousness is the glue to all relation.
If your shoes fits my conversation.
Empathy's a true gift, while consciousness is all there is to elevation.
Or gravitation, whatever is better.
Follow a field of information is patience to the letter.
Law of attraction but painting consciousness cannot be greedy.
It's levels from knowing the brush to collab' walls of graffiti.
It's being awake enough to see above separation.
The sticky stuff compounding Atoms making humans, one nation. Relativity. Everything living has a conscious.
Meaning, connect to it, all questions get responses.
Broken down relativity, bared. Empathy equals the MAP times Consciousness squared.
Creativity broken down relativity, bared. Empathy equals our MINDS times Consciousness squared.

A.M.O.R.E.Y.

(A Map Of Reality Embodies Yourself)

(Spoken word)

A philosopher said our minds are maps of reality. That stuck with me because a map isn't what reality actually looks like, it's just a guide to get us somewhere. But it made sense 'cause we keep drawing these maps, making them bigger until we lose consciousness, we die. Everyone's map is different too, as we sketch in different directions. But see the maps we draw gets more detailed the more consciousness we add to them. More colour, more dimensions even but the point this analogy made to me is how does someone else's map or piece of art affect my doodles? That got me thinking about treasure stories, pieces of map scattered across the globe. So if only I know what's inside my own head how do I know these other pieces of Map exist? That's empathy. It's the key to that hidden treasure. So what's empathy? The ability to understand and share the feelings of another. So why's that relevant? Well, if I had true empathy with everyone that is or was then my map would get an immeasurable upgrade right? Whatever treasure I'm seeking is sure to be on it, there's no need to get lucky or stumble upon it. So it's that awareness, that consciousness is the glue to that map, piecing minds together, piecing a peace of mind if you like. So empathy and maps of minds with consciousness is all relative. Empathy is the same as a really big mind of consciousness. You switch that material world Einstein theory and make it relative to the inner world of self. E is Empathy instead of Energy and it's equal to a Map or Mind instead of Mass and times that with the glue of Consciousness instead of the speed of light. (Echo)

CROSSFLOW dIGIHIRO

(Bridge) E is drawing chains, bleeding out our stains (repeat)
Yeah, it's the life, to live.